

Sofia Peppas

Sofia Peppas focuses on energy and environmental law, public law and public procurement law, as well as competition law and commercial law. She is a member of our Energy and Oil & Gas and Project Finance practice groups and advises both domestic and international clients on energy and environmental, project finance, public procurement and competition issues, such as renewable energy and LNG projects, concession agreements and public private partnerships.

Before joining Lambadarios, Sofia worked as an associate at a law firm specialized in energy law, as well as at the legal department of one of the leading national energy groups. She has been engaged in renewable energy licensing projects, regulatory affairs, public tender issues, as well as drafting commercial agreements.

Memberships

- Athens Bar Association

Languages

- Greek
- English
- French

Qualifications

- LLM in Industrial Property and Competition Law, School of Law, University of Athens (2021)
- LLB, School of Law, University of Athens (2019)